African Unity

THE ORGANIZATION FOR rocco or between Somalia, Ethlopia African Unity, which has just and Kenya. concluded its meeting in Cairo, was set up a year ago with the primary aims of ending the last vestiges of colonialism on the continent and of giving independent African countries an organized voice.

At this week's meeting it was brought home to the 33 heads of states attending that neither aim is capable of being achieved in as clear-cut fashion as they might have hoped. The conference was, in fact, marred by considerable bickering over the future course of African independence as well as hesitation over the speed with which the remaining colonial problems should be met.

The most unsettling issue to face the OAU was the attempt of the Marxist-oriented Ghanaian group to impose on the organization its view that African development must be achieved through continental federation or union - obviously the route to great power for the ambitious Kwame Nkrumah, president of Ghana.

This view of the OAU's future is strongly opposed by most of the other members whose spokesman was President Julius Nyerere of Tanganyika and Zanzibar, Mr. Nyerere accused Mr. Nkrumah of attempting to wreck African unity in a speech which was notable for its personal bitterness.

But this was only one example of the conflicts which arose at the of Africa, if they achieve a work-conference without being satisfacing unity of direction and purpose, claims between Algeria and Mo- the OAU off as a failure.

Although there is agreement in principle on support for the move-ments to liberate the Portuguese territories of Angola, Mozambique and Guinea and the freedom move-ments of South Africa and Southern Rhodesia, there was also hardheaded recognition by some states that they are not in an economic position to go along with action such as boycotts which could jeopardize their trade.

Another of the divisive elements in the OAU has been the accession to power of Premier Moise Tshombe of The Congo who was, in effect, told not to come to Cairo. A majority of the African leaders do not trust Mr. Tshombe, suspect him of being a tool of the Portuguese, and in turn are suspected by the Congo premier of giving aid to Congolese rebel groups.

The Cairo meeting thus has not been an unqualified success as a unifying force but it must, at the same time, be remembered that the OAU is still a very young organization made up of members whose origins are diverse and who have not yet had a great deal of experience in attempting to get along together. There is still a chance that it will develop into an influential force now that it has decided to set up a permanent headquarters and staff in Addis Ababa.

The economic and political potential of the newly-free nations torily resolved. Little was done to would be enormous and for that the antagonistic territorial reason it is much too early to write

No final guarantee has been given of the inviolability of the Fraser. Pressure can be expected to mount for damming for control purposes. If it is found "essential" the point will be made that hydro-electric development might as well accompany the flood control projects.

Paralleling this argument will be further assurances that dams will be so located that no important runs of fish will be blocked from their spawning grounds—despite the fact that no one knows what differences in the river flow will mean to main runs.

Saskatchewanites have always been great summer tourists. This year, a new crop failure in the making in the rich north central area, a reduction in number of Saskatchewan cars on the high-ways might have been expected. It has not happened.

"If that Vancouver whale's worth $20,000 then a cool quarter million is coming our way."

One license plate that is seen much less frequently is California. For many years our northern woods have been filled with Californians in the summer-refugees from smog-bound Los Angeles and the sizzling heat of the interior valleys. An added reason was the existence in Alberta of a large American colony and it attracted relatives by the thousands.

This year the Californians have largely gone elsewhere. Perhaps to the World's Fair in New York. Or the up-coming election may tend to keep people close to home. However, each year the tourist influx from the midwest seems to grow as more and more Americans discover the ease of travel between Winnipeg and the coast over the Trans-Canada Highway.

Trailer Tide

Each year sees more and more trailers being toted over the prairies and across the mountains. A huge trailer camp has been established at Banff, with space for 500 cars and it is often taxed to capacity. The economics of trailer haulare beyond understanding. A motorfamily can stay at a luxury resort for less than one year's depreciation on an average trailer. But the harsh grip economic reality is no longer as tight as it used to be. There is abroad in the west a new hedonistic spirit that was unknown before World War Two.

Thousands of Canadians, who would in the west this year is that the tourists are mainly Canadians. The yellow and never think of investing their savings in Canadian industry, have been plunking it into family clubs and social clubs at $500 over the streets in Calgary on Stampede to $1,000 a whack. joy life with not too much concern with the cost. Thus young people who once saved all year for a single vacation fling think nothing of finding money for skiing weekends in the winter and golf vacations in Victoria in early spring. To Make Buses Pay

I think it high time the municipalities made it into a paying business. There is no doubt that with vision and common sense this could be done. Here are a few things that should be considered:
The present routes and schedules were drawn up in Vancouver by the B.C. Electric and as the B.C. Hydro is not really interested in transportation have never been altered, notwithstanting repeated requests. New routes should be established with consideration given to loop or belt

Small type buses should be used at nights and Sundays on many runs, or as feeders. The habit of two buses leaving town together should be eliminated and proper spacing of buses on the same general run should be made.

The fare should be 10 cents and no transfers, many persons would pay 10 cents to ride four or five blocks who would not pay 25 cents to ride 20 blocks. Proper rush-hour service should be laid on. Costly lay-overs at terminals would be eliminated. The buses should be kept moving, the driver's pay goes on even when he is waiting at a terminal.

The high-salaried ineffectuals inherited from the B.C. Electric should be replaced with new blood with modern ideas who would put a little pep in the syste

While fees are increasing, students are often deprived of financial means of entering university.

Montreal Le Devoir

The Commons vote in favor of the federal government's plan for loans to university students helps clarify the meaning of certain recent speeches on co-operative federalism.

Let us take first of all the statement by the minister of justice (Hon. Guy Fav-reau) at the recent meeting of the Quebec Liberal Federation. . . The minister concluded by saying that "in a healthy federal system each sector of government fully respects the jurisdiction and responsibilities of the other sector."

This is a clear and categorical statement on the requirements of federalism.

But in the constitution, education is a field reserved to the provinces. Nevertheless, Mr. Favreau, as a minister in the Pearson government, proposes and approves these federal loans to students which are an invasion of provincial jurisdiction. According to Mr. Favreau's own definition, one could say federalism is sick . . .

to 'independence plus'; to that The whole tone of his column still leaves me with the impression that he has not read a copy of the Royal Comsibility and ability to provide for their peoples at least that minimum mission's report, otherwise he would not suggest they "brusquely tossed back" the standard of living which we regard as tolerable in this second half of doctors' submissions. He would know that in a 900-page report they dealt in detail with all of the doctors' points and gave specific reasons for rejecting them.

"There are very few people who will now accept less with out a struggle," Mr. Pearson declared. For example, they showed how medi-care under private plans would cost the This is it in a nutshell: "Independence plus." The former colonial Canadian patient $183 million extra per year. (Page 745),

They devoted several pages to They devoted several pages to the argument used by Mr. Mayse and the doctors that the indigent should have medicare "subsidized". They rejected this latter because it would involve "means the empty shell of political inde-pendence for which they have struggled so long. They also want some of the better material things tests" for up to 14 million Canadians, necessitating administrative machinery and "extra costs which Canadians cannot of life as well. If we, who have these things in abundance, are not afford" plus a method of examining "contrary to the dignity of man." (Page 738).

The Commission, which Mr. Mayse alleges dealt so shortly with submissions made to it, had among its members Dr. A. VanWart, past president of the Canadian Medical Association; Dr. D. all aspects of medical service into the political arena." As in Britain and Sas-katchewan the regulation and control of the practice of medicine remains in the control of the respective medical associations. All the government wants to do is pay the bills.

It is true that a government scheme would mean the existing schemes would be "wiped out." But Mr. Mayse neglects to add that they would be replaced with ne more comprehensive.

It is true that the case loads of the doctors would be increased. But this is surely an argument for more doctors and not one for restricting the access of patients to medical care.

One had thought that the argument based on the "doctor-patient relationship" had been laid to rest in Saskatchewan some years ago. Frankly, no one knows what this relationship is - certainly not Mr. Mayse, who seems to feel that what-ever relationship exists it is one of master and servant, one way or the other; and in any case if this mythical union does not suffer under M.S.A. it is hardly likely to suffer under a government scheme. Indeed the frequency with which it recurs in medical discussions despite the absence of any concrete definition is enough to reassure anyone of its permanence

Mr. Mayse is pleased with his medical verage. The Hall Commission found coverage. The Hall Commission found that over fifty per cent of the Canadian people do not have adequate medical cov-erage. Surely the "Tm alright Jack" argument is no adequate defence of the

INSIDE POLITICS

With Douglas Fisher, M.P.

Recently I used figures from the latest federal statistics on income tax to show how much more generous French Canadians and Quebecers were to charitable organizations than the rest of us. This spirit of giving seemed all the more impressive to me since ncome levels in Quebec average out much below those in Ontario.

The response to this column has been ick. Some correspondents have told me that I am naive. They write that there is a racket in Quebec. One man put it this way: "Ten days ago an engineer from Montreal told me of this practice. He had a receipt with a priest's signature on it. He paid $2 and received a receipt for $350. A truck driver, working for him always claimed $600

Another Quebec correspondent who is an accountant wrote, "It is common knowledge that many parish priests throughout the province will give a receipt in almost any amount a parishioner requests. The Department of National Revenue instituted a check on these practices some time ago but they must have called off their watchdogs as there was a howl of protest from Quebec residents."

The above statement is absolutely impossible of proof but some years ago I made up a tax return for a young sales clerk who was earning $20 a week and, sure enough, there was a receipt from her parish priest for $100. It was utterly ridiculous to expect anyone to believe that this receipt repre-sented the real contribution made.

Padded

Another man sent me a clipping from The Montreal Star of September, 1963. It begins: "A Roman Catholic priest testified today he received an "average of $1 for every receipt he handed out for what prosecution claims are heavily-padded income tax deductions for charitable purposes."

The priest was testifying in a Montreal court at the trial of a CNR employee who, the account says . . . is charged with taking part in making out of false income tax returns for the year 1960. In all there are seven counts against him totalling $3,000 for church receipts ranging from $350 to $700."

The priest told the court that he did not know how much the accused might have received. He said some 1,500 receipts had been issued, apparently for the year 1960. He agreed that the accused had approached him and asked if he could get receipts for some of his railway friends.

The report has this interesting account: "Most of the witnesses yesterday were CNR employees and all said they had dealings with the accused directly or indirectly for obtaining receipts ranging from $350 to $700. Furthermore, none of the witnesses at the time were members of the parish.

Receipts

"All told of handing over $1 for each hundred dollars on the receipt but the clergy-man maintained he had received only $1 per receipt while the accused, although agreeing he had received $1 for $100, maintained he had not made a cent on the affair."

If the people who have sent these letters to me are close to being accurate it would appear that our taxation authorities have a large problem on their hands. It is not fair if, as my correspondents allege, there is a practice in Quebec of priests acting like Robin Hoods, with charitable donation receipts as their arrows, to defeat the purposes of Ottawa tax-gatherers.

If there is substance to the allegations it would indicate that any question of morality in the issuing of such receipts has been over-ridden by the urge to help the common folk against the seeking hands of the out-

If it should be that this practice explains the extraordinary margin of charitable dona-tions in Quebec over those in the rest of Canada, one can only hope that the provincial government there is aware of it. The administration of Mr. Lesage has increased taxes considerably to meet the costs of the new politics of grandeur.

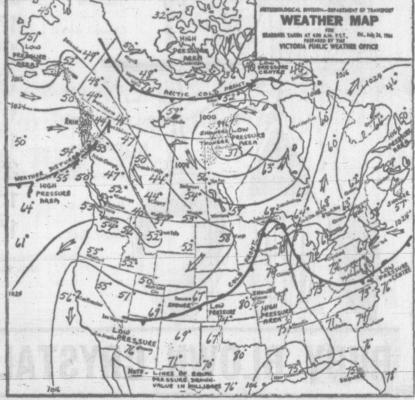

Honesty

The federal government is increasing the share which Quebec gets from federal tax revenue through the new formula now passing in Parliament. The ability of the federal government to pay is related to the relative honesty of tax-payers in Canada, including Quebec, in making out their returns. If there is a "charitable donation racket" in Quebec it must hurt Quebec, as well as Ottawa.

I have checked in a rough fashion the ratio of charitable donations to total income assessed for the 1961 tax year in other parts of Canada where the French-speaking and Catholic population is rather high. There is little indication that the Quebec kind of generosity (or, perhaps evasion) is practised Northern Ontario or in Northern New Brunswick. It would seem to be a provincial

If any readers have any information details on the question, please be sure I would put them to the federal tax officials.

Next will be at the Legion Hall, Mills Road, North Saanich, August 6, with others to be announced.

Mr. Littler gave emphasis to agricultural land because this region is short of it and in-creased population will make more demands on food, not only here but everywhere.

There will be more demand for local food to compete with imported food, he said. "There is such a small amount of suitable land, it is important to conserve it for agricultural or parks use," he sadi.

People can live at a high standard with the diversification of crops possible here, without interfering with the agricultural land, he said.

Goodonhamis Bonded Stock

Well it doesn't anymore.

That fine old bottle has launched its last sip. We've designed a new container for Gooderham's Bonded Stock. Tall and refined with classic lines. (Our whisky's now in the best shape ever).

And we age Bonded Stock longer now as well. To make every drop just a little more mellow. One thing though, Bonded Stock's smooth lightness we don't change. Our blenders know a good thing when they taste it.

Judging from the number of people who buy Bonded Stock Whisky, so does the rest of the country.

$60 MILLION PULP MILL PROPOSED FOR NELSON

VANCOUVER (CP)-A $60 million bleached kraft mill is proposed for Nelson, president William Sloan of Pacific Logging Company said Thursday. He said it will produce 600 tons of pulp a day for marketing and should be in production by 1968 or 1969 if necessary licences are granted.

Co-operation in the venture are Pacific Logging, a sub-sidiary of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Kootenay Forest Products Limited, a subsidiary of Eddy Paper.

The companies have filed a letter of intent seeking a reserve for a possible pulpwood harvesting licence over six Crown forests—the Slocan, Nakusp, Lardeau, Creston, Salmo and Arrowhead. Pacific Logging holds a tree farm licence in the area.

Purchasing Increase

Langford of Toronto, president December of the Trust Company Canada, said this week business and building in Canada this year is "noticeably greater."
Mr. Langford, also president of Eastern and Chartered Trust Company, attributed the growth to the influx of purchasing power provided by Canada's $500,000,000 wheat Ganada's $500,000,000 wheat sale to Russia.

Here is something different.

Since he first stepped into had never recorded a five-goal performance.

The five goals are "new" but there was nothing different about Gray's play. He hustled and bustled in typical Gray fash-ion. Managed to take five shots, appened to score five goals.
"We're always after Billy to shoot more often, but there was nothing really different about his play," acknowledged Ashbee. "He played a whale of a game, but he's capable of it."

Two of Gray's goals came while the Rocks were shorthanded. Gray's fifth and Victoria's 10th was one, as spectacular a goal' as you're liable to see in a decade.

He beat two defenders to loose ball in the Westminster zone. A third Westminster player took a run at Gray just as he moved across the goal-mouth Gray evaded the defender with a jump, and then shot while still League will operate as a seven-team circuit next season, dropping two of the present teams and adding a new one—University of B.C. Thunder-

The announcement was made following the league's annual meeting Thursday night. League president Bill Findler said that two teams in the present eight-team circuit—Seattle Hungarians and Wallaces had been dropped. Applications for membership had been reviewed from Mainland League champion UBC and from St. Andrews. Thunderbirds bid was finally accepted.

The PCSL next season will have six teams from the Greater Vancouver area—UBC, Columbus, Canadians, Firefighters, North Shore and New Westminster Royals-with Victoria United making the seventh.

The Seattle bid to remain in the loop was turned down despite a late plea by team president Balint Ducz that Seattle playing facilities—long a bone of contention—would be improved next season with the acquisition of a new park. Scots Promised a Lineup of Pros

The UBC bid was a triumph for T-Bird coach Joe Johnson, former Glasgow Rangers pro who has campaigned for two years to get his team in the senior league.

The St. Andrews defeat was a blow to the Scots' hopes of returning to the Coast League. St. Andrews officials had promised to introduce a number of United Kingdom pros into their lineup if accepted.

Said president Findler after the meeting: "The feeling of the clubs seemed to favor the UBC bid all the way though it went to a third secret vote before the University club won out 4-1 over retention of the Seattle club."

In another ballot, the league delegates elected former Victoria manager Wally Milligan as a member of the three-man executive for a three-year term, replacing Charlie Alcock. Other executive members are president Findler and vice-president Bill Thomson.

This corner, which is still functioning with its left shoe off and let that be a lesson to you, hobbled into the stately Empress dining room the other day for lunch with an old friend.

As a matter of fact, quite a few old friends turned up, our purpose to honor one of our great men with fried chicken, ice cream dessert withlittle green ears sticking out of it, and no speeches.

This man's name is J. W. Winson, the "Wildwood" I've told you about here before. His nature writings helped educate as well as entertain generations of British Columbians, and through the efforts of good men in our provincial recreation and conservation department, his winged words are to see print again.

Anyway, we got to cutting up touches as one does on these occasions; and coffee on the table and a black-and-yellow CPR funnel visible through lofty windows to remind us of other days, the newsmen around Wildwood fell Wildwood listened for a while, then cleared his throat gently.

"Did I ever tell you," he asked the company, "about the meetings of the South British Columbia Natural History Society?"

Since he was our guest, we chopped off our own remem-ber-whens of skulduggery in politics and malfeasance in public office, and gave him

A deprived American nature-lover and a privileged Canadian with a bulging pocket would disappear behind a shrub. When they emerged, the bulge would have transferred itself to the American pocket.

"Briefly, certain members of the group were combining nature study with a discreet rum-running operation."

Among our number was Torchy Anderson, vigorously retired on Salt Spring now, but as working press, my candidate for the greatest reporter this province has yet pro-

"That," he observed, "would place the host in an odd position."

"It did," Wildwood assured "In fact it left him impaled on a very perplexing di-lemma. He had no wish to forbid the society his grounds, and he had seen enough of Prohibition's evils to doubt its effectiveness.

"But against this were numerous ethical considerations, among them the fact that beside being an officer of the natural history society, he was a Canadian magis-

Wildwood pushed his chair back. "Luckily," he said, "a decision wasn't required of him. While he was still pondering the matter, along came Repeal, and with it a considerable falling off in society membership."

"I remember that place of yours," Torchy Anderson said.

B.C.'s grand design for banking will flop without government money in it, Attorney - General Robert Bonner said today.

He launched anew the government's arguments for a Bank of B.C. which he and Premier W. A. C. Bennett. made before the Senate Banking Committee in Ottawa

But this time he gave a blunt answer to the ques-tion which bothered the senators more than anything else: Why does the provincial government have to put money into the bank if public support is so great? His reply today:

"The moment the government steps out of the picture I say the flush of public enthusiasm for the proposal disappears.

Mr. Bonner added:

"Without the continuing support of the legislative authority as offered, this grand design will not succeed."

Mr. Bonner said that it would be impossible for the Bank of B.C. to raise its $100 million capital without the financial backing of the government-even though this might be less

Eat Your Way to Health With Special Diet Foods By PENNY SAVER

Strange as it may seem, dieting is not left only to those who wish to lose weight. Many people are put on diets for special health reasons. So, today I would like to tell you about some diet items I found in one shop.

A perfect sweetener for those who are on sugar-free diets is elling at $1.15 and $3.95. Its main ingredients are barley malt and whole dates.

It contains no sugar or salt and is nutritionally balanced. Three shakes of this sweetener are equal to one teaspoon of sugar but contain only one calorie. As well as being suitable for sweetening drinks, it can also be used for fruit, salads, grapefruit, pan-cakes and cereal, and for cooking and baking.

placement for the Danny Kaye show. The one-hour program, hosted by the "vagabond lover" Rudy Vallee, is an entertaining variety hour. Val-lee, the veteran, now starring in How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, is a polished host.

He has the advantage, unlike last ear's Talent Scouts host Mery Griffin, of being able to introduce and talk to the guest talent himself.

There are no visiting celebrities to Stephen introduce the acts which, in the past, produced insin cerity on the part of many personalities who cared more for themselves than for the acts they were introducing.

Vallee kidded himself a lot. Frankly, there was too much of this, for he seems a very pleasant and affable person who can stand on his own reputation.

But it did prove a fine underplayed foil for the

"That," he observed, "would place the host in an odd position."
"It did," Wildwood assured

"In fact it left him impaled on a very perplexing diemma. He had no wish to forbid the society his grounds and he had seen enough of Prohibition's evils to doubt its effectiveness.

"But against this were numerous ethical considera tions, among them the fact that beside being an officer of the natural history society, he was a Canadian magis-
